

CORVUS REVIEW

A Curvy World

by Diana Raab

The world is full of curves—such as Kandinsky’s Dominate Curve, the embryonic curve, buttocks, cumulous clouds, balloons, an onion, an artichoke heart, Picasso’s Woman With Yellow Hair, the man in a Speedo suit, a lampshade, a telescope, a garbage pail, a button, mouth of a glass, a bottle cap, a wedding band, a lampshade, a toilet seat, a sink a headlight, the sun, the moon, a planet, a scoop of ice cream, an egg yolk, a bulb, hoop earrings, doorknobs, belly button, compact disc, the letter ‘o.’ a wheel, a spool of thread, my hips, but only after my daily dose of dark chocolate.

Published in Corvus Review: Issue 23. December 2024.